

ICAS Macro Annual Conference Organizational Structure

- Key words/ideas: intersectional, praxis, radical, inclusive social justice, peer-reviewed presentations, no plenaries, no keynote, collectively organized, no corporate sponsors, accessible, live streamed, recorded, vegan, registration online, protest, lodging at people's homes, carpooling, and affordable.
- In the evening(s) of conference three events commonly occur (1) dining out with attendees of the conference, (2) ICAS organizational meeting, and (3) protest or activist event.
- No one is paid or personally invited to the conference. If funds are available, assistant may be offered to one or more economically disadvantaged persons who wish to attend.
- All presentations for the conference are submitted to the conference committee for peer-review. After the presentations are accepted they are organized in accordance with the schedule below.

ONE OR TWO DAY CONFERENCE FORMAT:

From Theory to Practice

Critical Animal Studies Academy

This part of the conference is dedicated to presentations dedicated to defining critical animal studies that are inline with ICAS, so people enter the conference with a solid foundation of CAS.

*This part of the day will include a possible certificate

Beginning of the Conference

General Conference

This part of the day is dedicated to general presentations and is structured as a traditional conference with possible numerous concurrent panels.

Middle of the Conference

Academy for Peace Education

This part of the day is dedicated to trainings, roundtables, presentations, and workshops that are geared around activist skills, strategies, tactics, campaigns and movement building.

*This part of the day will include a possible certificate

End of the Conference